

MANY ATTEND BIG BANQUET

150 WERE PRESENT AT COMMERCIAL CLUB ENTERTAINMENT.

POLAND-CHINA HOG MUCH DISCUSSED

Cabaret, Music and Luncheon, Followed by Speakers From a Number of States.

Maryville has always royally entertained the members of the Standard Poland-China Record association, and last night was no exception. For with an attendance larger than ever before the twenty tables at the Elks club were filled at the banquet and speaking last night, which began with a three-course luncheon. The luncheon was interspersed with music by Maulding's orchestra and cabaret entertainments by Misses Besse Scott of this city and Gladys Kysar of Brookfield. The entertainers were frequently applauded and the visitors were carefully served by members of the club.

Following the banquet, C. C. Hellmers, president of the commercial club, who acted as toastmaster, announced the invocation, which was given by the Rev. C. Emerson Miller.

Following the invocation, Alvin Windom, president of the association, gave the response to the address of welcome by Mr. Hellmers. Mr. Windom spoke of the pleasure the members of the association found in coming to Maryville, because of the interest in their association and in the entertainment which they received.

W. B. Gex of Graham next talked, and dwelt upon the value of coming to the annual meeting and the benefits derived.

Ward Bennett of Lee's Summit read an interesting paper on the main issue of the association—that is, the Poland-China hog.

This was followed by a discussion of "Poland-China, the Only Breed," by H. C. Lookabaugh of Effingham, Okla., who told why he had selected this breed as the best to raise. Mr. Lookabaugh also gave a number of figures that he had compiled by actual experience in raising hogs and how he selected and developed his stock to the best.

H. B. Walter of Effingham, Kan., explained the value of saving the little pigs and the proper methods to pursue. He showed how this was of the greatest importance not only in the profit to the raiser, but in increasing the food supply.

"My Experience as a Fieldman" was the subject of the talk by S. A. Nelson. He told of his experience in this line and in farming in connection with hog raising.

Walter W. Head of St. Joseph spoke of the pleasure he derived from farm life and in raising the Poland-China breed. He explained why he took this up after city work. Mr. Head is cashier of the German-American bank of St. Joseph.

C. H. Walker, editor of the Kansas City Poland-China Journal, read a paper of general interest and commented especially upon the excellent co-operation of the breeders in this line.

The importance of selecting the most perfect type for exhibition purposes was discussed by H. C. McKelvie of the Nebraska Farmer. He explained that the breeders of hogs should be more important at the state fairs, and that greater efforts should be made to make the hog a bigger factor in the exhibits.

E. E. Carver of Guilford read a paper on "The Son as a Partner in the Business." He showed how, where a boy was raised up with the business and instructed while he was young, that he not only would have other's experience to rely on, but would have more experience himself.

O. L. Garrett of Rea, Mo., read a paper on the subject of starting a pure bred herd and the methods to pursue. The right kind of feed to use in producing desired results was discussed by E. E. Marlow of Wellsville, Mo. Mr. Marlow told of his long experience in the milling business, and his conclusions as to the best kind of feed and rations he used for his hogs for certain results.

The entertainment was concluded by a talk by G. L. Wilfley of Maryville. He told of the importance of the association members in having a building in keeping with the new building. He explained that the new building was desirable not only for the actual comfort and convenience, but in the fact that it was a place in which the members would be glad to entertain and bring their visitors to.

About one hundred and fifty attended the banquet, eighty of this number being out-of-town guests. The talks covered not only much of practical value to the raisers of the breed, but were also punctuated with numerous remarks and stories that made the meeting interesting even to those not connected with the subject.

REVIVAL SERVICES

SIX PROFESSIONS AT MEETING LAST NIGHT AT BAPTIST CHURCH.

SINGER IS HERE TODAY

Dr. Smoot Gave Excellent Sermon—Great Interest Being Taken in the Meetings.

The revival services at the Baptist church were largely attended last night. The evangelist, Dr. H. A. Smoot, took for his text "There is no difference, for all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." There were six professions at the meeting last night.

Mrs. G. W. Herbold, wife of the Baptist minister of St. Joseph, arrived today and will be in charge of the singing during the revival. She comes highly recommended.

The subject of the sermon tonight is "God making use of human instrumentality."

Dr. Smoot, in his sermon last night, said in part:

"There are some things I want to call your attention to especially. No member of the human family ever has been or ever will be saved by keeping the law. Now, in the second place, we are all sinners; all lost by nature. No one ever has been, nor ever will be, saved in any other way than by faith in Jesus Christ. 'Now we know that what things soever the law saith, it saith to them who are under the law: that every mouth may be stopped, and all the world may become guilty before God.'"

"For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." 'As it is written, there is none righteous, no not one.' All these passages of Scripture go to prove that all the human family by nature is lost.

"The world may be divided into two classes. One section of the human family is in the straight and narrow way that leads heavenward. The other section is in the broad road that leads down to hell. There isn't any difference. Each individual in this broad way is going to hell. There may be difference in the degree of punishment or reward given to a man. Every saved man is traveling heavenward and every unsaved man is traveling hellward. It is not a question of the degree we will receive, but a question of being a sinner or a saved man, and there is only one way to be saved. All believers in Jesus Christ are traveling heavenward and will be saved. Some will have the greater commendation, but the fact remains that all believers will be saved and all sinners will be lost. No one can be saved without coming unto Christ and believing on Christ.

"A man must first realize that he is a sinner and needs to be saved before you can lead him to Christ. The first thing to get a sinner to do is to get him to say he is lost and needs the Savior. You may not be as bad as some sinners, but the question is, are you saved? If you are not in the straight and narrow road, you are traveling the same way with the rest of the sinners and there isn't any difference. The moral man is traveling in the same road with the outlaw and the criminal. There isn't any difference. They are all hellward bound. What the sinner needs to realize is that he is a sinner.

"Sinners' lives are worthless in the sight of God. They can't honor God. There is only one thing that a sinner can do to please God and that is repent of his sin and believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and cry out for salvation. That is the only prayer that God will hear.

You can't be reformed into the kingdom of God. You must be born again. The real test of evangelism today is this point. They may all advocate reformation instead of regeneration, but you can't reform men until they are regenerated. A man must be born again. It is impossible to reform a man without regeneration.

"One man may break all the commandments, another only break one. They are both guilty of commandment breaking. There is only one way we can keep God's commandments, and that is through Jesus Christ. Therefore, we must be born again.

"He that believeth not is condemned already, because he has not believed on the name of the only begotten Son of God. All sinners are condemned already. They are all traveling in the same direction, and as far as going to hell is concerned, there isn't any difference. If you have never been saved you need salvation. We never will obey the lawmaker until we learn to love the lawmaker. We will never respect the law until we have first learned to love the lawmaker. We are never going to keep God's laws, we are never going to honor God, we are never going to respect God until we first learn to love God. There is no other way to be saved. The only way to have our natures changed is in the new birth. 'Ye must be born again.'"

"Jesus Christ is our substitute. Our only hope is in Him. He died that we might live. He died to keep us out of hell. If we are ever saved it must come through Him. Through Him we must be restored unto God."

HUNT FOR VESSEL

GREEK SHIP THESSALONIKI STILL IS LOST.

Wireless Messages Indicate That Ship Was in Serious Trouble and Probably Sinking.

Special to The Democrat-Forum. New York, Jan. 5.—Rescue vessels are unable to find the Thessalonika, despite the fact that they have searched the seas dexterously. The captain of the Thessalonika sends out urgent calls that the engine rooms and bunkers are flooded with water, and he has very little provisions.

The coast guard cutter Senearior was ordered by Washington to put to sea and hunt for the Thessalonika until found. If she is found she will be towed to port or sunk.

A wireless message which came in fragments at 8:35 last night from the Greek liner Thessalonika said that the crew had taken to the lifeboats.

The manner in which the message was received indicated that the disabled ship, concerning whose movements there has been mystery for several days, was in serious trouble and probably sinking.

A wireless message received earlier last night gave the impression that the steamer United States, which went to the Thessalonika's aid yesterday, probably was in the vicinity of the disabled Greek liner. The last location given for the United States was latitude 30 degrees north, longitude 68:15 west.

Some proxies were ruled out and considerable interest was manifested in this ruling. F. P. Robinson speaking on the law of Missouri governing such matters. A resolution to increase the board of directors from seven to nine members was adopted unanimously.

Mr. Robinson again asked that the votes of proxies of Mr. Gilbert of 99 and of his proxies of 3 be counted, but he was ruled out of order. Mr. Robinson announced that he would bring action against the association to count his votes, and Mr. Gilbert also said that such action would be taken by him.

DEDICATE NEW BUILDING

S. McKelvie of Fairfield, Neb., Made Principal Address at Meeting This Morning.

The dedication of the new building of the Standard Poland-China Record association was held this morning. A fair crowd was in attendance, most of whom were stockholders in the association. Alvin Windom of Nodaway, Ia., president of the association, presided as chairman of the meeting.

Samuel McKelvie of Fairfield, Neb., made the dedicatory address. Mr. McKelvie is a former president of the association and a veteran breeder of the Poland-China hog. He has been a stockholder of the Standard Record for many years and helped build up the organization in Nebraska. There are now 273 members in that state. Mr. McKelvie spoke at length on the history of the association. He spoke of the proxy system of voting at the annual meetings, and said that it was detrimental to the interests of the association to have any one man hold a large number of proxies. He said he was in favor of having the number of proxies limited to four or five, and asked the members to put a resolution on their minutes that the association was against the proxy system of voting. He said he hoped the state legislatures would pass a law limiting the number of proxies any one man could vote. Mr. McKelvie spoke highly of the new building.

H. C. Duncan of Clearfield, Ia., was introduced by Chairman Windom as "the greatest Poland-China auctioneer that ever stepped on the block." Mr. Duncan spoke of the Poland-China hog and in regard to sales.

W. A. Blagg spoke of the new building, and said Maryville was proud of the association and the new home. Chairman Windom then announced that the meeting would adjourn to 1 o'clock for business.

GIRLS! HAVE WAVY, THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Save Your Hair! Double Its Beauty in a Few Moments—Try This!

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine. Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, seraggy or too oily, get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now.

attitude toward women. If boys and girls are brought up side by side with certain fundamental ideas of equality there will be no time when the man, having attained his majority, will have to reconstruct his ideas concerning the equal partnership of men and women in the various relationships of life, social, marital and civic.

"Nowadays a boy in many instances is permitted to feel when he comes into young manhood that his mother's opinions no longer have the same value they did when he was a growing boy. He thinks she doesn't understand the important things of life. Later, when his reason begins to operate, he has to fight the inheritance of a secret sense of man's superiority or remain hopelessly fixed in his view of humanity as a whole.

"One of the important things in the education of a boy is first of all to let him know the physical aspect of the country he lives in, the out of doors world about him and the natural laws that govern everything in it.

"And how important it is that the girls know outdoor life too! Therefore, that the training shall be fundamentally alike up to the point where it naturally separates, it is important that girls as well as boys shall have much of outdoor life in their younger years.

"A great deal of the value of outdoor life and work comes from the recovery of past knowledge of how to do things. It is a working out of the problem of development—a getting back to the source of creation in acquiring knowledge and efficiency in doing things.

"I see this outdoor movement as a vast picture. At the bottom is darkness, and ascending are layers of increasing light until the sun rays out its full glory above. Struggling, moving and growing all through these layers is humanity—souls in all stages of development. If you catch humanity young enough the chance of letting in the light is greater.

"If we are to develop in America distinctive schools of art, music and handicraft we must lay the foundations on those things which were distinctly American—woodcraft, outdoor life in general, the beautiful customs of the North American Indians and their art and picture writing. These we must first understand.

"Our woodcraft work is founded on the fundamental natural laws which were known to the North American Indians; hence many of their designs and symbols have been used in seeking to get back to the big constructive principles that govern human life. For instance, much symbolism is used. These symbols have their outer meaning for the passerby and their deeper spiritual significance for those who seek it.

"For our people to get the full benefit of the occasional respite from the workaday world that camping trips give they must know the WHY by heart, and this can best be done by studying it when young; hence the importance of woodcraft work for boys and girls."

TEACHING THE FOALS EARLY

Youngster Must Be Well Nourished and Given Every Advantage to Become Strong, Sound Horse.

Are you giving that young foal the proper care? To become a strong, sound horse when matured, the foal must be well nourished and given every advantage possible.

At this time of the year mares and colts are allowed to spend at least a part of the time in the pasture. The foal should be taught to eat grain very early. By placing the feed box from which the dam eats her grain low, the foal, at about two months of age, will begin nibbling with the mother and will soon acquire a taste for the grain.

A pen built in one corner of the field made high enough to keep the mare out and allow the colt to pass under will make it possible to feed the foal grain with very little difficulty. Allow the mare in the enclosure with the foal for a few times, and it will soon learn to go in itself. Keep a liberal supply of grain, preferably oats and bran, and perhaps some cracked corn, in the feed box. To induce the dam to loiter about with the colt, have the pen near a shade tree or the salt box.

By weaning time the foal will have become thoroughly accustomed to eating grain and will wean very easily, besides being in better condition as a result of this additional feed.

HITCHING HORSE TO WAGON

Strap Fastened to Hub of Wheel Instead of Post—Animal Will Stop for Further Orders.

If a man told you he hitched his horse to the wagon you would probably think he was trying to chaff you or that his condition required attention. But an Indiana man has devised a way in which this may be done. A circular band with short arms projecting at opposite sides fits over the hub of one of the wagon wheels. When the horse is to stand the hitching strap, instead of being made fast to tree or post, can be hooked to the lower arm of the band. If the horse starts off the wheel revolves and winds up the slack of the strap, pulling back on it so strongly that unless the animal is very determined about it and is willing to pull the wagon under these uncomfortable conditions, he will be apt to stop and wait for further orders.

AVOID LUNGWORMS IN SWINE

Treatment Is Worthless on Account of Inaccessibility of Parasite—Prevention Is Best.

(By A. R. HAHNER, Idaho Experiment Station.)

Lungworms are one of the most common parasites of swine. They are threadlike in appearance, brownish-white in color and varying in length from three-fourths to one and one-half inches. They are found in the finer divisions of the bronchial tubes, mixed with mucus, which is secreted in abundance as a result of their presence.

Treatment, as a rule, is worthless on account of the inaccessibility of the parasite and the difficult method of application.

Prevention is the only ground on which we can expect to control this trouble. As moist yards make a good place for the development of the eggs, the yards should be located on high ground and well drained.

Keep all manure heaps and straw-stacks out of the hog lots for the same reasons. If possible, change the pasturage frequently.

Occasionally disinfect the sleeping quarters with a three per cent solution of some coal tar dip.

TO MEET AT JOPLIN

FEDERATION OF COMMERCIAL CLUBS TO TAKE UP STATE NEEDS

REV. GREEN ON PROGRAM

For an Address at the Meeting—Maryville Commercial Club Will Probably Be Represented.

The convention of the Missouri Federation of Commercial Clubs January 18-19, at Joplin, will be one of the most important meetings ever held in the State, because it will deal with problems the solution of which will mean much to the prosperity of the State.

The Maryville Commercial Club has received an invitation to send representatives and will probably be represented. Rev. C. R. Green, pastor of the Harmony church, is to make an address at the meeting on the first day. Rev. Green's subject will be "The Church and Its Relation to the Community."

All clubs over the state as well as cities and rural communities have been urged to send representatives to the meeting and to join in a great co-operative movement under a slogan of "All Missourians for All Missouri," so that "All Missourians will be working for all of Missouri."

Development and betterment will be convention subjects. The meeting will be for the serious consideration of problems and not for the display of oratory or the riding of hobbies. The idea is to find out what are Missouri's needs and how to meet them.

Leaders in the movement consider that it is all right to eulogize imperial Missouri, but better to pitch in and work up the wealth of natural resources of the state. They consider that it is time to do as much as possible in development, instead of as little as permissible, and that it is time to spend more energy in striving for a higher average instead of giving so much energy to boasting of the things in which the state excels.

Says the call to the convention: "What boots it if we have the finest bull calf in the world if all the other bull calves in the State are below the average? What does it profit us to have the champion milk cow if thousands of acres of fertile dairy lands are standing idle? What are we doing to reap the greatest profit from the delightful climate and the fertile soil?"

The call asks: "How does our State stand in the matter of good roads? How does it rank in educational matters. What are we doing to bring in good people and good money from the more crowded state and from foreign lands? What are our cities and towns doing to help in the development of their adjacent rural districts? Why do we figure the beauties of landscape so plentifully given us, and selfishly keep them hidden from the tourists who know not of them?"

These are some of the questions that will be put to the convention.

The Federation of Commercial Clubs has for its object the betterment of business affairs through development of natural resources, improvement of method, a stronger organization of forces and a closer co-operation of these forces into a movement for the common betterment of the State.

"We need to know what is being done in other parts of the State," says the convention call. "We will never grow by a stick-at-home policy. Let's get acquainted and get friendly."

"How can the country town be made more prosperous? This phase of Missouri development will be thoroughly discussed by merchants and business men."

The Joplin Commercial Club will entertain the visitors to the convention at a banquet. William Hirth of Columbia is president of the Missouri Federation of Commercial Clubs. A. W. Douglas of St. Louis, is chairman and Allan H. Hinehey of Cape Girardeau is secretary of the Executive Committee.

Why Do You Worry?

O, why do you worry and why do you fuss?

It's dollars to doughnuts that things might be "wus."

Pray what in the world are you hoping to gain

When, by day and by night, you simply complain?

A laugh is worth more than a river of tears;

An ounce of bright hope than a ton of dark fears;

A cheer beats a groan by a hundred to one,

And growling's a capital habit to shun.

To double your trouble and add to your care,

Keep talking about them, yes, no matter where;

But would you get rid of your burdens of grief?

Forget that you have them, you'll soon find relief.

If nobody had any trouble but you,

Do you know what I think to you we would do?

We'd encase you in glass and write, "Here's a man

Unlike any other since mortals began."

If we never had storms, no rainbows we'd see,

And a very great loss that surely would be;

Take heart, and take hope, then, and seek to live so

That to others the right way to live you may show.

ROOSTER KILLS CHILD.

Fowl Attacked Los Angeles Lad, Who Was Feeding Chickens.

Los Angeles, Cal.—John M. Seaman, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Seaman of this city, is dead at Ontario following an attack by a large rooster at the ranch home of the child's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. V. Lawrence of that city.

John and his mother visited at the ranch. The chickens were a novelty to the boy, and he was anxious to feed them. With prodigious bravery that was thought only childishly cute he accomplished his desire. A few days ago he was so engaged when a large rooster jumped at the little fellow and bit his spurs deeply in his scalp.

Blood poisoning developed, and the child died in a hospital after much suffering.

He attempted to persuade the drug company to take back the ninety gallons, but it refused, and he figured he had lost over a hundred dollars in the transaction.

The war in the meantime caused the price of the chemical to soar, and recently the chemical company of whom he bought the order paid him $30.15 a gallon for the ninety gallons it refused almost a year ago. Gerner netted a profit of more than $2,500.

RAISE A COW, SWEDISH SAYS, AND GET RICH

Treat Her Right and You'll Be Rewarded.

St. Paul.—Raise up a cow in the way she should go, and before she is old she will richly reward you.

C. N. Nelson, who lives just over the Anoka county line, a few miles from St. Paul, says:

Thirty-two years ago, when he was in the early twenties, Nelson landed in Minnesota fresh from Sweden. His total assets were 50 cents and the contents of a queer looking Swedish clothes chest. Half an hour after his arrival he was 50 cents poorer.

"When I got off a train in Minneapolis all I had to direct me was a card bearing the address of a cousin who had come to America a short time before," Mr. Nelson said. "I showed the card to a huckster, who also was Swedish. He took my 50 cents and drove me a few blocks, pointing to one of the windows, marked 444, said, 'There it is.' I had supposed that the 'box 444' written on the card was a street address. I did not know how my cousin was to appear from that box, but I stood with eyes glued on the number from 10 o'clock in the morning until the middle of the afternoon, afraid to look elsewhere for fear my cousin would come in the meantime.

"When at last I heard two men at one of the windows talking my language I told them my story. They explained that I was in the postoffice and that my cousin might not go there for several days. I should have been in a bad fix had not one of the men invited me to come and do odd jobs at his boarding house and earn my keep.

"My cousin did not come to town for three weeks, and when he did he did not help me because he could not. He had all he could do to earn a living.

"Then I worked in a railroad construction camp one summer and returned to the city with the intention of going to school and learning English. My first employer agreed to give me my board for helping with the milking but I had not gone to school many days when he met with an accident. He persuaded me that I would learn English faster driving a milk route than by going to school, so I became a dairyman and worked until I had saved $1,000."

BOY A FINANCIER.

Lad Fourteen Years Old Makes Money Out of Sheep.

Ipswich, S. D.—Gerald Pershin, fourteen years of age, gives promise of being one of the financiers of the country.

On Sept. 5, 1914, the boy went to M. A. Slocum, a friend, and told him that he had a chance to buy twenty-five old ewes from Robert Jones at a bargain. Mr. Slocum went with the boy to the bank and signed a note with him, thereby enabling the boy to get the funds.

The other day the boy entered the bank, paid over $83.00, his note with interest, and remarked that he had cleaned up $110.80 clean profit on his sheep during the year. He had sold $28 worth of wool and had sold his original purchase and their increase, less five sheep the coyotes had killed, for $166.40.

PUFFED UP LIKE A BALLOON.

Rock Island (Ill.) Doctors Puncture Boy's Skin and Save His Life.

Rock Island, Ill.—The body of Fred Lawson, eleven years old, swelled to twice its normal size as the result of an accident, and for a time his life was endangered.

While coasting the boy was struck in the neck by a piece of wagon wheel rim protruding from the ground. The tracheal tube was punctured, and in exhaling his breath much of the air passed through this puncture and under the skin, causing the body to inflate.

Young Lawson was at the point of suffocation when physicians arrived. Their first act was to puncture the skin of the neck and allow the air to escape. They say the boy will live.

SAND SPRINGS, OKLA., MADE FOR WIDOWS

Oil Producer Using Wealth on Women and Children.

Sand Springs, Okla.—This town was built for widows. They compose more than a fourth of the 5,000 population. The town was founded by Charles Page, multimillionaire oil producer of Tulsa.

His earliest recollections were of his mother's efforts to raise her large family unaided, and he resolved that when he grew up he would take care of all the widows.

When he made his fortune Page founded Sand Springs. He built dozens of comfortable cottages in which gas, fuel and rent were free. Factories he bought so the widows might have employment.

He built a car line to Tulsa upon which widows ride free. There are a day nursery, free medical attendance and a vocational school. If a widow wants to get married Page helps her do that. He likes grandmothers too. There are a score of them here, with nothing to do but knit and read and reminisce.

Page probably has more "children" than any other man in the world. An orphan's home in a nearby town recently went bankrupt. To provide better for the little inmates Page legally adopted the whole institution and moved it to Sand Springs.

Pulaski County Resident Wins Record by Not Using Gun.

Rolla, Mo.—Mrs. J. H. Arthur, who lives near Laquey, Pulaski county, probably enjoys the distinction of being the only woman in Missouri to kill an eagle without the aid of a gun.

Recently she heard a noise in the chicken yard and saw a large eagle swoop down on the flock. A watchdog rushed upon the eagle and knocked it to the ground. Mrs. Arthur grabbed a long piece of wagon tire and struck it with all her might, breaking its neck and right wing. The eagle measured six feet four inches from tip to tip.

Pettigrew was indicted in January, and his first trial was on an indictment that carried only a misdemeanor penalty. He escaped on a technicality. The next indictment under the felony law also was held defective, but the third one was sustained.

This will bring the total number of twin pairs enrolled up to eight. These twins are scattered all the way through the school from the primary to the senior class.

NOW IS ALMANAC TIME

Many Calls at the Drug Stores and the Almanac Still Ranks Second to No Other Book in Many Homes.

Now is almanac time at the drug stores, and while the demand is possibly not so great as in past years still the almanac ranks second to no other book in many homes. Hundreds are given away by the stores and they will be carefully studied as to weather forecasts and the various other information that they contain. Many people have their favorite almanacs, which they call for year after year, and will accept no other if they can obtain the one.

While many people use almanacs few know their origin. The Christian Herald prints this story of their origin.

The first almanacs—that is to say, the first historical—were of Arabian origin, and reflected the local genius of the people in a very striking way. They served as models in other countries for hundreds of years. The oldest known copy of such a work is preserved in the British Museum and dates back to the time of Rameses the Great of Egypt, who lived 1,200 years before the birth of Christ. It is written on papyrus, in red ink, and covers a period of six years. The entries relate to religious ceremonies to the fates of children born on given days, and to the regulation of business enterprises in accordance with planetary influences. "Do nothing at all this day," is one of the warnings. "If thou seest anything at all this day it will be fortunate," is another entry. "Look not at a rat this day." "Wash not with water this day." "Go out not before daylight this day," are some of the additional cautions.

This almanac was found in an old tomb, and supposed to have been buried with its Egyptian owner when he was converted into a mummy, for future explorers to dig up and dissect in the interest of science and literature. Next after this in point of age among the existing specimens of ancient almanacs are some composed in the fourth century. They are Roman Church calendars, giving the names of the saints and other religious information. The Baltic nations, who were not versed in papyrus-making, had calendars engraved on axe-helves, walking sticks and other articles of personal use. The days were notched with a broad mark for Sunday, and the saints' days were symbolized in various devices, such as a harp for St. David's, a gridiron for St. Lawrence's, a lover's knot for St. Valentine's and so on. The Saxon almanacs are numerous and contain historical as well as ecclesiastical entries.

It is possible to trace in these curious records all the changes of popular belief and taste. They were prepared to meet the current demand and to constitute a systematic story of what took place in successive periods and how knowledge increased with the revolving years. We owe to them most that we know of the people for whom they were made and by whom they were indorsed.

OBITUARY.

At the noon hour, Friday, December 31st, a life went out that left extreme sorrow in its going. It was Mary Copp. She was born in Shenandoah county, Va., on May 17th, 1833, and was therefore 82 years, 7 months and 16 days old. She was married to John Wendell on December the 28th, 1858, and had just passed their 57th wedding anniversary at the time of her death, and it can now be said of her "And thou shalt be missed for thy seat will be empty." To this union were born ten children, seven of whom are living, three having died in infancy. Those living are Mrs. Laura Beaver of Parsons, Kan.; Mrs. Carrie

Hayward of Kansas City, Mo.; Mrs. Alice Wamsley of Arkoe, Mo.; Mrs. Mattie Snively, and Mrs. Ada Snodgrass of Sheridan, Wyo., and William and Lee on the home farm where the mother died. She had been a long time resident of Nodaway County. She with her husband left Virginia and settled for a time in Ogle County, Ill., where after 14 years they came to Missouri in 1878, and since that time have been residents of this county, having spent thirteen years in the home in which her life went out. She was born of Lutheran parentage and had never known the time when she did not love God and the church. She joined the Methodist church somewhere about the year 1880 here in this county and had ever since been one of its most loyal and true adherents. Her Christian experience was a very vital matter with her. Her religious life was intense. Her walk in the Christian life was straight forward. She was tenderly devoted a life that was strong and influential and such that all who knew her had the sublimest confidence in her moral and religious integrity. She was one of God's own, and on this Sabbath day is enjoying the fellowship of those who worship around God's throne. As a wife and mother she was unexcelled. Tender, kind, patient, sympathetic and loving, her husband and children rise up and call her blessed. She was especially tender and loving in her ministrations to her aged companion of 57 years who in recent years has suffered an affliction which has made life burdensome. Her chair is empty, her place is vacant, and her voice, so sweet, and so hopeful, is forever stilled, and the home is now bereft of a wife and mother whose place cannot be taken. But God's Grace does and will sustain, for it was He who said "I will not leave you comfortless I will come to you again. Let not your heart be troubled neither let it be afraid."

Her funeral was preached in the home Sunday morning to a large gathering of her friends and neighbors by the Rev. J. Howard Thompson, Ph. D., a friend of the family and a former pastor, but now of Ridgeway, Mo., after which she was laid away to await the resurrection morn, in the Miriam cemetery, in Maryville. The sincerest sympathy of all go out to the family.

Nut Cake

Simply Delicious

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

In giving this recipe, Mrs. Hill believes it to be one of the best all-around cake recipes it has been her good fortune to make. The simplicity and uniformly good results will appeal to every housewife

K Nut Cake

One-half cup butter; 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar; 3/4 cup milk; 2 cups flour; 2 level teaspoonsful K C Baking Powder; 1 cup of nut meats chopped fine; whites of 4 eggs, beaten dry.

Sift flour and baking powder together, three times. Cream the butter, add the sugar; then alternately, the milk and the flour mixture; lastly the whites of eggs and the nut meats. Bake in a sheet in a shallow pan thirty or forty minutes. When cold cover with the icing and decorate with whole nut meats. This is also an excellent white cake recipe when nuts are omitted.

Chocolate Icing

One cup granulated sugar; 1/2 ounce chocolate; white of 1 egg, beaten dry; 1/4 teaspoonful vanilla extract; 1/4 cup water.

Stir the sugar, chocolate and water until the mixture boils; cover and let boil three minutes. Uncover and let boil till when tested in cold water a soft ball may be formed; beat into the white of egg, then beat until cold, add vanilla. The nut caramel frosting given on page forty of the K C Cook's Book may be used in place of the chocolate frosting, if desired. A copy of the Cook's Book, handsomely illustrated in 9 colored plates, if you will send the colored certificate packed in 25-cent cans of K C Baking Powder to the JACQUES MRS. CO., Chicago.

ABOUT MISS KELLER

IS TO APPEAR HERE ON THURSDAY EVENING, JAN. 27.

THE STORY OF HER LIFE

She is Now in the Early Thirties and Deaf and Blind Since Infancy—Auspices of XXth Century Club.

The story of Helen Keller, now in the early thirties and deaf and blind since infancy, is as unparalleled as it is well known. Miss Keller is to appear at the First M. E. Church of this city on the evening of January 27 under the auspices of the Twentieth Century Club.

The development of this extraordinary girl, who at seven years of age was dumb as well as totally deprived of the powers of sight and hearing, and yet graduated with honors from college at twenty-four, wrote several successful books, and finally acquired a speaking voice that enables her to appear on the public lecture platform, is the most remarkable achievement in the history of education. To realize the full import of these triumphs and of the stupendous obstacles which hindered their attainment, is to agree with Mark Twain in his assertion that "The two most interesting characters of the nineteenth century are Napoleon and Helen Keller."

For twenty-seven years Helen Keller's constant companion and teacher has been Mrs. John Macy, who as Anne Sullivan first pointed the way for the little girl to emerge from the darkness into the light. It is difficult for us, who have all our normal senses, to realize the full import of Mrs. Macy's work. She found Helen with a mind so untaught that it was absolutely ignorant of the fact that things have names. Fear, pain, hunger, thirst—these the girl knew, for they were instinctive, but of knowledge as we understand it, Helen Keller had not the remotest sensation, and all the ordinary avenues of acquiring knowledge were closed to her. Yet through Mrs. Macy's devotion and genius came a true conception of even the subtle beauties of the world, and so keen is Helen Keller's appreciation of nature that it seems only right she should be living now in the country, where she can revel among flowers and fields and woods she loves so well. And here in the country is her home, among the Massachusetts hills, with broad outlooks and grateful sunshine, brooks and the blossoms of many flowers.

Meeting Helen Keller anywhere, it is difficult to believe she is deprived of the senses so necessary to most of us. But to be with her in her home is to forget that there are many differences.

She is in the big, sunny room set apart for her study. Mrs. Macy is there, and so is Mrs. Keller, a charming lady with a delightful sense of humor enhancing all the faculties of which her daughter is deprived. She often travels with them on their lecture tours about the country, for the relationship between all three is more than fond.

Very much like an ordinary woman Helen Keller seems as she sits there, her fingers running rapidly from line to line of the raised Braille type of the book she is reading. No time is ever lost to her; she has her hours for study, work and recreation, and she goes about them with wonderful confidence and precision. With a knowledge born of long use she points out her various typewriters for different purposes, the Braille machine for writing letters to the blind, and all the multitude of things her library and study contain.

This lip reading and its attendant answering of questions are one of the great features of the lecture which Miss Keller and Mrs. Macy give. The audience asks the questions, and Mrs. Macy repeats them while Miss Keller makes her answer, and it is always a very clever one, too. What is more, she is so thoroughly conversant with the events of the world, social, political and scientific, that rarely is a topic touched upon for which she has not an answer. As to business matters she is always very much interested in her own. Not long ago the suggestion was made that she visit Texas and the Southwest this year, and she was extremely pleased, "I do want to go to Texas," she said with evident sincerity.

Helen Keller's happiness seems to be perpetual. A smile is always on her face, and she looks like the most cheerful person in any gathering. This good humor is ever present in her conversation, and she has a wit that is difficult to get the better of. So it is little wonder that for this year she has chosen "Happiness" as the theme of her new lecture. Even in her affliction Miss Keller has found the real happiness of life, and she has helped many others to discover it, too.
